

Historic Truce Signed In Mideast

Battle Shortage . . . States Act On Energy

From turning down thermostats in Minnesota to shutting off air conditioning on buses in Hawaii, officials in every state are moving to counter this winter's energy crunch.

Four days after President Nixon outlined a series of steps designed to ease the fuel shortage, an Associated Press survey of officials in each of the 50 states showed most had followed or were about to follow at least some of the President's recommendations.

Among other things, Nixon suggested on Wednesday that speed limits be lowered to 50 miles per hour, that thermostats be lowered 6-10 degrees and that unnecessary outdoor lighting be extinguished.

Several Northern states, accustomed to chilly winters, already had acted along those lines. A great many others have found themselves preparing legislation or forming advisory councils to help them tighten their energy belts.

According to the AP survey, 31 states have directed government employees to drive at reduced speeds, usually 50 m.p.h., and have urged private motorists to follow suit.

Thirty-four states have deliberately cooled down their office buildings, most to 65-68 degrees, and 25 states have ordered cutbacks in office or ornamental lighting.

Seven states have imposed lower speed limits on their roadways, and governors of a number of others say they expect similar action if Congress doesn't act first to make the reduction nationwide.

New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Washington, Rhode Island and Vermont set speed limits of 50 miles an hour. California previously had ordered a 65 m.p.h. limit on roads posted at 70.

In Georgia, Gov. Jimmy Carter forbade state vehicles to exceed 50 m.p.h. and told police to stop motorists who exceed the state's 60 m.p.h., no matter how slightly.

"If a motorist goes 61 miles per hour, he will be ticketed," Carter said.

The Maine Turnpike Authority instituted a 50 m.p.h. speed limit "advisory." Officials said they were studying ways to make the voluntary limit enforceable.

After urging drivers to stay within the 50 mile-an-hour limit, Iowa Gov. Robert D. Ray instructed state police to stop motorists exceeding that speed and give them "a friendly reminder" to slow down and save fuel.

Of the states reducing lighting, some altered nighttime cleanup schedules, some simply removed light bulbs and some shut off floodlights that had illuminated capitol domes and memorials.

In the Washington, D.C., area, the General Services Administration removed 750,000 fluorescent light bulbs — about 22 per cent — in 87 buildings, a pattern followed at most federal buildings in other cities. The lights at the Washington Monument and Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials are doused after 9 p.m., although the Capitol remains lighted later.

New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson said he is considering asking state businesses to convert to a four-day week to save on heating bills. Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace created a special Energy Management Board.

IN MIDST OF DESERT . . . Egyptians, right, sit down with Israelis to sign formal cease-fire.

First Pact Since 1949 . . . Between Israel, Egypt

By The Associated Press

An Israeli and Egyptian general met amid the rubble of war Sunday and signed a U.S.-inspired truce aimed at bringing peace to their troubled lands.

The milestone pact signed on a desolate stretch of the Suez-Cairo highway marked the first such formal Arab-Israeli accord since the 1949 Rhodes armistice, at the end of the first Middle East war.

It strengthened the fragile cease-fire on the Suez Canal and opened the way for an international conference designed to foster permanent peace in the Middle East, site of four wars since the birth of Israel in 1948.

The Israeli and Egyptian representatives met after the signing ceremony to sip Israeli grapefruit juice and begin what are expected to be tough negotiations on how the accord should be carried out on the irregular battle lines left by the October war.

A U.N. spokesman in Cairo called their preliminary talks "useful and constructive" held in a "correct" atmosphere. He said they would resume Monday at the same sandy checkpoint, between the same officials.

In Jerusalem, the Israeli chief of staff announced an investigation Sunday into the conduct of last month's Middle East war. The move follows charges by opposition leaders that Israel was caught off guard by the two-front Arab assault Oct. 6.

The government was reported considering a separate investigation. The probes seem certain to figure in general elections set for Dec. 31.

At Sunday's cease-fire ceremony, Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv, assistant chief of staff and adviser to Premier Golda Meir, signed for the Jewish state. The signer for Egypt was Maj. Gen. Mohammed Abdul Ghani Gamazy, second-ranking officer in the Egyptian army.

"We have taken the first step on the long and difficult road that leads to a settlement of the conflict with our neighbors, and to peace with them," Yariv declared afterward.

Eight hours after the signing, Egypt's war minister, Lt. Gen. Ahmed Ismail, commented: "We are at the beginning of a new phase in our history and struggle to liberate our usurped lands."

In a statement distributed by Cairo's official Middle East News Agency, he said that while "we are starting this new phase to achieve peace based on justice," he was calling on his soldiers "not to let a minute pass without preparing ourselves for . . . any attempt by the enemy to violate the cease-fire."

Syria, the other major combatant in the October war, snubbed the new truce deal, put together by the diplomacy of U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger during his tour of five Arab capitals last week.

By the time the signing took place, the fast-traveling Kissinger had moved on to Peking on diplomatic business with the Chinese.

The Egyptian and Israeli representatives put their signatures to the English-language document on a U-shaped table covered with gray cloth at about 3 p.m. — 8 a.m. EST. They shook hands but did not exchange salutes.

Looking on inside the United Nations tent was Gen. Ensio Siilasvuo, Finnish commander of U.N. peacekeeping forces. Outside was a windblown no-man's land strewn with reminders of the October war.

Stone barricades and coils of barbed wire marked the line where Israeli invasion forces have dug in about 60 miles from Cairo. Fuel drums lay stacked around. Blue-capped U.N. Emergency Force troops patrolled the area.

The accord said Israel and Egypt agree: — To observe the cease-fire issued by the U.N. Security Council Oct. 22 and renewed Oct. 23.

— To start discussions on the cease-fire lines of Oct. 22 in the framework of agreement on disengagement and separation of forces under U.N. auspices.

— To get daily supplies of food, water and medicine to the town of Suez and evacuate wounded Suez civilians.

— To avoid any impediment to the movement of nonmilitary supplies to the east bank of the Suez Canal, where Israel says the Egyptian 3rd Army is encircled.

— To replace Israeli checkpoints on the Cairo-Suez road by U.N. points, with Israeli officers checking supply movements.

— To exchange all prisoners of war "as soon as the U.N. checkpoints are established."

State Contesting $1.5 Million Debt

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

State officials are attempting to whittle down a $1.5 million assessment against the state for unpaid social security contributions dating back to 1951.

And unless they are successful in cutting that assessment, the 1974 Legislature will be asked to make a multi-million-dollar appropriation, including 6% interest, to settle the debt.

The Social Security Administration has estimated Nebraska owes $1.5 million in back social security contributions for 1,752 justices of the peace, 607 constables, 93 registrars of vital statistics and eight members of the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds.

Mrs. Frances Christensen, head of the State Department of Administrative Services (DAS) social security bureau, said the state probably owes considerably less than $1.5 million.

She and a team of auditors have set out to prove that Nebraska owes only a fraction of that assessment in reality.

"Maximum Estimate" "Their assessment was not a firm figure," she said. "They used the maximum estimate of the amount owed. It's very high."

She conceded, however, that whatever figure is finally arrived at will be nearly doubled by the 6% interest which has been accruing, some for more than 20 years.

According to Mrs. Christensen and Asst. Atty. Gen. Cal Robinson, the social security contributions by the state and the various officials were never made, due to a mix-up over who was excluded from social security.

Officials such as justices of the peace, Robinson explained, were paid on a fee basis, not a salary, and thus for social security purposes the state considered them independent contractors, not employees.

"Since all their income came from services, the state thought they were not covered," Robinson said.

Laws Amended In 1960 Finally, in 1960, Sen. Carl Curtis got laws amended to exclude justices of the peace and constables from social security. The position of justice of the peace was recently abolished in a judicial reorganization.

Still, the state owed money for both its contribution and the justices of the peace' for the years they were part of the social security program.

The state finally took the issue to court and lost on every appeal. Earlier this year, the U.S.

Supreme Court declined to hear an appeal from the state, ending any hopes of clearing the state of all liability.

By law, the federal government must pay the various officials the benefits they are entitled to whether they contributed as they were expected to or not. And the state will have to forward its share and the employee's share to the federal government regardless of whether the justices of the peace and the constables contributed.

Mrs. Christensen said the state cannot go back now to collect the officials' share.

"The Legislature will have to appropriate for it," she said. "We won't have it in the social security funds. We're hoping to have a figure for the Legislature by the time it convenes."

Full Circle 'Goes Beyond' What Drug Centers Offer

By GRACIA SIEB
Star Staff Writer

Full Circle, a part of the Lincoln-Lancaster Drug Projects, is the name of the transitional living facility located at 2545 N Street, according to Dr. Olga Bom, Drug Projects director.

"We have a very lovely old house where we take care of people with drug problems," said the soft-spoken Dr. Bom, who added, "We can be reached 24 hours a day by anyone who has a drug problem."

"Full Circle goes far beyond what other drug centers have to offer. We have no heat, no hassle," she continued. "The most unusual thing about Full Circle is the warm and caring atmosphere."

"Whoever comes to the house — parents, friends or clients — their problems and their humanity are taken very seriously."

An example cited by Dr. Bom referred to a couple being visited by their granddaughter who, during her visit, had taken drugs and was found by her grandparents in a state of drug emergency. She was taken to Lincoln General Hospital and after emergency care she was transferred to Full Circle.

While the granddaughter was in a counseling session at the facility, the other clients in the house took care of the grandparents and tried to make them as comfortable as possible.

"We have telephone as well as drop-in crises and telephone and drop-in counseling," Dr. Bom said. "Basically, we have inpatient and outpatient care."

"We do nonmedical detoxification or talk downs and drug rehabilitation care, where we offer individual as well as group counseling and re-socialization activities."

"Drug rehabilitation is the most difficult form of rehabilitation," according to Dr. Bom. "A good drug experience is a perfect state of euphoria and the memory of that euphoria is still there no matter how miserable a person is during a bad trip."

Further explaining the program, assistant director Ron Ruhnke said, "Besides the group and individual counseling sessions, we have group psychodramas to help kids get in touch with their feelings and help them understand their relationships with other people."

"Also, we do deep muscle relaxation once a day to help everyone rid themselves of tension and anxieties."

In addition, there are various reading and writing assignments which result in extensive self-inventories and "in general, deal with self-understanding and interpersonal relationships."

"On weekends, we have re-socialization activities," Ruhnke continued. "For example, on Friday evenings, clients may invite guests to participate in in-house activities such as dancing, charades or singing. This helps our clients gain ease with themselves and others in a social setting."

Other activities at Full Circle include housekeeping and cooking duties, competitive sports on a non-competitive basis to enable clients to be themselves and days where people pair up to learn to communicate with one another.

How do the residents of Full Circle feel about the program?

"I was sent to York for a 90-day evaluation," explained one young woman who is a new-comer at Full Circle. "They call it evaluation, but it is just like a prison."

"Then the court put me on two years probation and sent me here. I've been here four weeks and I'm just starting to find out what it's like."

"Sometimes I feel like I'll be here forever, but every day the time goes faster," she continued. "Being here has been good for me."

"I was mad when I got out of York. I would have gone out and gotten stoned. But my attitude has changed. Living here has taught me how to feel and how to accept my feelings and myself."

All in all, "our clients come first," said Dr. Bom. "Full Circle offers an opportunity for young persons with drug problems to know themselves and know themselves well. Also, it helps them accept themselves well and relate well to themselves and their fellow man."

X-Ray First Demonstrated

Broken Bow (AP) — Medical history was made Sunday at the Jennie Melham Medical Center.

The occasion was the first electronic transmission of x-rays, via a telephone line (tele-medicine), to medical personnel at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha.

Gov. J. J. Exon was the first person to have his x-ray transmitted over the innovative system.

With the new medical transmitter, doctors in central Nebraska will now be able to transmit x-rays to the Medical Center for a confirmation of their diagnosis in serious cases.

Khristan Roskoski, project director of the Department of Radiology, at the Medical Center, said "the system is unique in that it is the first of its kind in the world."

It took about five man years for Westinghouse scientists to develop the system, she said.

The experimental project cost about $128,000 and is funded for two years by the National Center for Health Services for Research and Development.

Gov. Exon's x-ray took about 90 seconds to send to Dr. William J. Wilson, chairman of the radiology department at the center.

Rod Zeigler, Westinghouse technician, said the image on a standard x-ray, is picked up by a fast scan television camera and the broken down into a slow scan image.

"When broken to a slow scan image, the x-ray then becomes adaptable for usage by ordinary telephone lines," Ziegler said.

Upon reaching a receiver, the transmitting process is reversed and 525 lines on a television monitor are filled in for viewing or monitored.

Before and after transmitting, doctors in Broken Bow are able to discuss the x-ray with doctors in Omaha on the telephone.

Gov. Exon complimented Dr. Wilson and his staff on their efforts in developing this system, adding that "it is a magnificent machine to help meet the health care needs of Nebraska."

Mrs. Roskoski said the system is very subtle and complex and they do expect some problems transmitting on rainy days.

She said she expects the cost of a transmitter to be less than $2,000, while a receiver will be about $10,000.

The first real test of the machine came later Sunday when an x-ray of a cracked hip was transmitted to Omaha. However, doctors at Broken Bow failed to notify the doctors in Omaha that the hip was cracked.

The Omaha physicians called back, wanting an x-ray of the other side, adding that they spotted a crack and wanted to know if the crack extended to the other side.

President Sets Talks With Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House acknowledged Sunday that President Nixon will meet with every Republican representative and senator in a series of six sessions this week to discuss Watergate.

A presidential spokesman also said Nixon eventually would meet with some Democratic congressmen, although no schedule for those sessions has been set.

The spokesman said the GOP members will be able to ask questions during the talks. Plans for the sessions were revealed by Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., on the NBC television program "Meet the Press."

"At least nine hours will be spent by the President being interrogated by members of the Congress," Percy said.

The White House confirmed that the meetings would take place after being asked about Percy's report.

"I think this is the beginning of full and total disclosure," Percy said. "Anything related to the possibility of criminal activity should and must be revealed. I think the President is prepared to do this now."

The White House said Nixon would hold three sessions with House Republicans and three with the GOP senators. A Monday breakfast meeting between the President and the Republican Coordinating Committee already had been announced.

The White House said the meetings would be held in the state dining room and the White House library, among other rooms, where settings would be less formal than the President's office and will not give the impression of a formal briefing.

The spokesman said Nixon wanted "to have full and open communications" with the GOP Congress members "on Watergate-related matters and on other matters as well."

The meetings reflect an increase in Nixon's contacts with Republican on Capitol Hill on Watergate issues.

He met on Friday with GOP House and Senate leaders.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont said Saturday that Nixon intended to make public the contents of White House tape recordings and other documents related to Watergate after they are submitted to the courts.

"My impression is very strong that he is willing to release everything relating to the Watergate without being in contempt of court," the senior Republican senator said.

Nixon spent the weekend with his wife Pat, and daughter and son-in-law, Julie and David Eisenhower, at Camp David. He returned to Washington Sunday afternoon, where a spokesman said he met with chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

Acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork said there was no possibility Nixon would fire the new special Watergate prosecutor, Leon Jaworski, who replaced the dismissed Archibald Cox.

He said a directive to fire Jaworski would have to pass through his office and the President has assured him, and others, that before Jaworski would be fired, the move would be discussed with congressional leaders for their approval.

New York Times
News Summary

(C) New York Times Service

On the Cairo-Suez Road, Egypt — Egypt and Israel signed the six-point cease-fire agreement sponsored by the United States and immediately began direct discussions on carrying it out. The discussions marked the first time since the 1949 armistice agreement that higher officers of the two warring nations met in negotiations over larger issues than the establishment and maintenance of local cease-fire arrangements. (More on Page 1.)

Some Questions Unresolved

On the Cairo-Suez Road, Egypt — Egypt and Israel were unable to agree in two bargaining sessions on the first steps toward carrying out the cease-fire agreement they signed. Another meeting was set for midday Monday. Authoritative sources said the Israeli delegation had refused to lift the Israeli roadblock on the Cairo-Suez road and have it replaced by a United Nations checkpoint. (More on Page 1.)

Geneva Peace Conference Urged

Jerusalem — The United States has proposed that an Israeli-Arab peace conference be convened in Geneva in early December under American and Russian auspices, Israeli sources in Jerusalem said. United States Ambassador Kenneth Keating delivered the proposal to Premier Golda Meir, according to the sources.

Federal Gas Rationing Probable

Washington — Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton said that "the odds are better than 50-50" that the federal government will institute a system of gasoline rationing "within the next two or three months." He made the statement on the "Issues and Answers" television program. Charles Dibona, deputy to John H. Love, the White House energy chief, said almost the same thing on a Washington television program. He said that if the present cut-off of oil by Arab nations continues "the probabilities of having gas rationing before the winter is over are very high." (More on Page 1.)

Nixon To Meet With Republicans

Washington — President Nixon plans to meet this week with all 234 Republicans in Congress and answer all their questions about Watergate and related matters. A spokesman for the President confirmed that a series of six meetings on Watergate was scheduled after Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., disclosed the President's plans.

Oregon Already Saving Energy

Salem, Ore. — Oregon has three months of experience with the kind of energy-saving program that President Nixon has proposed for the entire country — and Gov. Tom McCall has a cold. When he instituted the program last August, one of the governor's suggestions was that home and office temperatures be kept at 68 degrees or less. And now not only McCall but also his wife, his son and his dog all have the sniffles. The Oregon experience makes two points clear. Voluntary efforts can save small but significant amounts of energy. It is estimated that the state cut its consumption of electricity by 8% last month.

Tapes Use As Evidence Doubted

Washington — Federal court hearings on the secret White House tapes have raised serious doubt among legal authorities that many of the tapes will ever be usable as evidence in future Watergate criminal trials. The fact-finding sessions before Judge John J. Sirica, which go into their third week Monday, have failed thus far to establish whether two missing conversations between President Nixon and aides were inadvertently unrecorded, as the White House insists, or were conveniently mislaid, as the Watergate prosecutors have suggested, but not openly charged. (More on Page 1.)

Health Information Show Funded

New York — The nonprofit Children's Television Workshop of the Public Broadcasting Service has received $7 million in grants for the production next fall of a health information series for adults based on the same education-plus-entertainment techniques used successfully in "Sesame Street" and "The Electric Company."

Kissinger, Chou Meet 2nd Time

... Talks Could Lead To Chinese Premier Visiting U.S.

PEKING (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Premier Chou En-lai met again Sunday amid speculation their discussions may lead to Chou's first visit to the United States or some other clear sign of closer U.S.-Chinese ties.

Later the two attended the ballet of "The White-Haired Girl," a tribute to the Chinese Revolution.

No details were disclosed of their 3½-hour session in the Great Hall of the People, the second since Kissinger arrived in Peking Saturday from his whirlwind Middle East peacemaking mission.

Beforehand, Kissinger and Chou called in photographers and newsmen to record their smiles and friendly banter. Chou told Kissinger, a nonsmoker, he encourages smoking because it's good for the Chinese economy.

But the Chinese premier said he doesn't approve of drinking very much. "I drank from 1935 to 1965, for 30 years," he said. "That's quite enough."

Kissinger replied: "Mr. Premier, that's going to make quite a headline in America."

Kissinger is known to be eager to step up relations between Peking and Washington, and to come away from his sixth trip to China with solid achievements in this regard.

Kissinger believes that in the case of China, a diplomatic relationship is built more on face-to-face contact than through channels. This is the main reason he has been such a frequent visitor to Peking since his path-clearing secret trip in July 1971.

Also, there is speculation fueled by a comment Kissinger made in a banquet toast Saturday night. "We are determined to do much to complete the process we started two years ago as rapidly as possible," he said, apparently predicting that Peking and Washington might upgrade the liaison offices they have in each other's countries to full-fledged embassies.

U.S. officials traveling with Kissinger said that such a move is highly unlikely before the Secretary of State leaves Peking for Japan on Tuesday morning. But the same officials also advised against expecting spectaculars during Kissinger's peacemaking swing through the Middle East last week — and out of that came a cease-fire agreement between Egypt and Israel and an exchange of ambassadors between Egypt and the United States.

N. Ireland Terrorists Injure 3

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Terrorist gunmen struck in Northern Ireland and the Irish republic Sunday, leaving three victims in serious condition.

A fourth man was in fair condition with a gunshot wound in the shoulder.

One of the victims, his head hooded, was thrown from a car in the Roman Catholic markets area of Belfast. He had been shot in the temple and badly beaten. Doctors listed his condition as critical.

Near where the body was picked up, British troops found a placard bearing the word "tout" — an Irish Republican Army term for an informer.

On the other side of Northern Ireland's capital, two brothers were shot by hidden gunmen in the fiercely Protestant Sandy Row district. One was admitted to a hospital with grave wounds in the head and chest. His brother was the man hit in the shoulder.

Repairs To Skylab 3 Rocket Progress Well; Launch Is Set

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The space agency decided on Sunday that repair work was progressing well on the Skylab 3 rocket so that a further delay in the shot is not necessary. The launching was set for 9:36 a.m. EST Thursday.

The decision was reported by sources who are monitoring the work of replacing eight defective stabilizer fins on the Saturn 1B rocket. An official announcement was expected later in the day.

Hampered by chilly, 25-mile an hour winds, work crews completed changeout of a third fin early Sunday and began work on a fourth.

The Skylab 3 astronauts, Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson, relaxed in their medical isolation quarters at Houston's Johnson Space Center, where they are winding up training for the planned 85-day mission.

The three astronauts took the day off and planned to relax and watch televised football games in the quarters. They will fly to Cape Canaveral two days before launching.

They would have been launched Saturday if it weren't for the defective fins. When hairline cracks were discovered in all eight during a routine inspection on Wednesday, officials decided to replace them and postponed the flight five days.

Experts said that if the Saturn 1B rocket had flown with the cracks, the stresses of launch might have caused it to break up and explode.

Analysis revealed the cracks in the 9-foot-long fins were caused by a combination of salt air corrosion and weight stress placed on the rocket when it was fueled during a test a week ago.

The fins support the 22-story-tall rocket on the launch pad and provide aerodynamic stability during the early phase of flight.

Once Carr, Pogue and Gibson are aboard Skylab they'll set up housekeeping for 85 days on man's third and final visit to the station. They will conduct extensive experiments and observe the comet Kohoutek, which is streaking in from deep space heading for a loop around the sun in late December.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Do an editorial on Dads' Night, suggested one young lady during the course of an annual father-daughter dinner. Monday's being a day of departure for us from the rigors of hard news, it was decided to take up her suggestion.

Hopefully, every father has or will have the opportunity to participate in a father-daughter affair of some kind or other. And one might wish that some daughter would have the chance, also, to put such an affair in the perspective of the young ladies.

But perhaps on the basics, the fathers and daughters would really not differ too much on their interpretations of the evening. One might begin with the feeling that things are not really so much different in our society today as compared to other generations as we like to think.

There is, for instance, still a unique kind of relationship between fathers and daughters, not easily explained but as real as the ground beneath your feet. From fathers, this relationship may spring from some inner protective instincts, from inbred societal norms, from hereditary principles or what-have-you but it boils down to pride and hope.

The daughter may be average, below average or above average in appearance, skills, intelligence, etc. but she is very special to her father. He sees in her a long list of assets which make her an individual of rare promise.

To him, she is going to be some young man's marvelous catch or, if she prefers, a fine addition to the business world. She may not be perfect, he might admit, but is as near to it as most people can come. The minus side of things is mighty small while the plus side constitutes a long list.

But it's not a one-way street. He doesn't need to be told what she thinks for it has become evident to him. It's a cinch he doesn't know the latest dance steps and maybe doesn't even know the old ones very well but that is something to laugh about.

He sticks fairly well in dress to the standards of his peers but that, really, is what she expects. His moralizing may seem at times like a rather old tune and yet, it still may serve as a bit of an anchor, as something to lean on.

Fathers as daughters, come in all varieties of sizes, shapes, personalities, achievements, etc., but remain unique individuals. Each daughter seems to think that her father is just a little special, maybe not perfect but without any adequate substitute.

It is a kind of mutual admiration society, which is what it always has been and, presumably, what it always will be. Times may change but the family structure and family bonds remain the foundation of our lives.

Father-daughter get-togethers are, of course, social events. Thus, you see your daughter, not as a little girl, but a young lady.

And you see at such times a collective overview of today's youth. You see physical energy that seems to be beyond exhaustion, enthusiasm that appears unbounded, poise, impatience, exuberance, confidence, uncertainty, charm, good humor and many more things too numerous to mention.

These are young people, on the high road so to speak, whose vision remains unclouded and aspirations undaunted. They are your tomorrow, as you once were, and they leave you feeling good about it.

Even as individuals, much less collectively, they are too complex to really categorize, except to speak of the promise they inspire. Dads' Night is one you don't want to miss.

NEW YORK — How silly can Mankind (you've heard of her) get?

Dr. Benjamin Spock is in the process of rewriting his bible for mothers and fathers — "Baby and Child Care" — to appease the upstanding cockles of the Women's Movement.

The Ms's of America say the book is sexist. And Doc Spock is having a devil of a time (is devil a him or her in this case?) consoling them.

There are a few idiotic problems involved. The most difficult is how the pediatrician-author is going to get around the sticky enigma of what pronoun to use in describing a baby, singular.

Traditionally, we have referred to a baby or child or homo sapien of any age as a "he." As in "If your baby has a fever of 105, he must be assumed to be ill."

But the Women won't have it. They claim that a baby is a daughter too, and that with a fever of 105, she deserves to be categorized as a sick her. How can Spock be so beastly as to treat an infirm female child as a male?

The beleaguered man describes all the alternatives he faced before coming to a conclusion about how to appease the Libbers.

He had always considered "he" to be a bi-sexual pronoun, he says, until he saw the light of liberation.

Then he knew he must change, but to what? The English language offers no singular pronouns that cover both sexes as "they" or "them" do in the plural.

Should he state "he or she" every time he is referring to a baby? It would sound hopelessly clumsy when repeated in several successive sentences.

He considered "an illegitimate hybrid — s-he," but there was no similar way to condense "her-him" or "her-his" gracefully and unobtrusively.

Finally, he decided to capitulate altogether.

In future editions of "Baby and Child Care," he will use "she" and "her" to cover both boys and girls.

For the sake of people who think he is coping out to satisfy the desires of the Women's Movement — and who think, in addition, that he is being sexually discriminating against boys — Dr. Spock explains:

"It (the labeling of babies and children as female) has the special virtue of reminding people how much girls and women have been cheated in the past and how much needs to be done in order to repair the damage."

And, forecasts, "If the day comes when women receive equal justice, then the question will arise whether calling a child of either sex 'she' and 'her' in 'Baby and Child Care' constitutes discrimination against boys. My literary heirs will have to tackle that problem when it comes up."

And surely it will come up.

On March 31, 1929, the great wit Will Rogers wrote, "You know Women are getting into more things that are embarrassing to men."

"You see the first idea of giving them the vote was just to use the vote. But the Women contrary-like they are, they wasn't satisfied. They started to take this equality thing serious."

Public Backs Newsman's 'Privilege'

The Gallup Poll last week reported that a growing number of Americans believe a reporter should not be required to reveal confidential sources if he is taken to court to testify about information appearing in a news article.

The percentage of people who believe a reporter should have the right to protect the confidentiality of his sources has risen from 57% to 62% in the past year, while the percentage who believe that a reporter should be compelled to reveal the names of his sources dropped from 34% to 27%. Eleven per cent had no opinion.

This does not illustrate, in our opinion, a great upsurge in public trust in the press or agreement with how it sometimes presents the news; much of the public still sees inordinate bias in coverage and commentary. But we think it does reflect a growing public attitude — a renewal of that attitude — that the press is the best tool the public has, or at least the best hope the public has, of getting to the bottom of things. The part the media played in uncovering Watergate and other scandals over the past year, while not directly related to the newsman's privilege issue, doubtless was the main reason that attitude has been restored.

We imagine that most of the people in Gallup's sample were not specifically concerned about the so-called shield laws where they exist. Many of them probably feel that under certain circumstances, in murder cases for example, a reporter should be compelled to produce the name of his source. The question Gallup asked was most probably answered with a gut reaction that yes, a reporter has to keep his sources confidential because often that is the only way he can keep them, and just as often, they are the only doors to the truth.

The media can't delude itself by thinking that such figures reflect blossoming admiration for its work, but it can take comfort from an apparently growing attitude that the public regards its work as essential and supports its efforts to get to the bottom of things.

Chambers Enters Race

State Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha said last week that he will seek a position on the ballot next year as an independent and "run like Jesse Owens for the governorship."

Even the great Jesse Owens would have trouble catching up with the lead that Gov. Jim Exon has developed over the past three years in his expected pursuit of re-election.

But then, Chambers has not been one to back away from a challenge. As a state senator, the Omahan has been an especially blunt, sometimes emotional but always eloquent spokesman for the causes he believes in.

Chambers has no realistic chance of being elected governor of Nebraska. Upon hearing of his decision to run, we imagine that most political observers began to calculate just how many votes Independent Chambers would siphon off from which candidate — Democrat Exon or his Republican opponent.

We think that whether Chambers wins or loses or is even a decisive factor in the election of a governor, however, he will at any rate perform a great service for the voters of Nebraska.

He will, to be sure, say many things that otherwise might go unsaid in a two-way race between a conservative Democrat and a Republican that most likely will be equally as conservative if not more so.

Chambers will speak out forcefully about social problems in terms of justice, equality, opportunity, increased services for the poor, the sick, the imprisoned, the undereducated.

He will raise issues that many Nebraskans have forgotten or do not care about or have shied away from.

If he elicits responses from his opponents on those issues stronger than we imagine they would otherwise be willing to give, he will have run the good race.

The Most Secret Recesses

Store Grain Everywhere.

Tunneling is an old Chinese strategem. Sun Tzu, who taught "The Art of War" in 500 B.C. and is Chairman Mao's favorite strategist, counseled: "The general who is skilled in defense, in effect, hides in the most secret recesses of the earth."

I have read a popular book and seen a popular movie both entitled "Tunnel Warfare." All cities are riddled with underground shelters and connecting links. Tunneling is even regarded as an offensive tactic and I wouldn't be utterly astonished if portions of the Soviet frontier had been honeycombed by clever Chinese engineers.

The other aspect of Maoist defensive strategy is distributing food and key supplies around the country. Chen Chung of the agriculture ministry says: "Each district must become self-sufficient in grain as a preparation against war. In wartime, communications can be cut."

People's China has a vast army with limitless reserves. The full strength division — volunteers who may be retained after their three-year enlistment expires — comprises somewhat over 10,000 men with five regiments: three infantry, one artillery (20 tanks) and one armored (80 tanks).

Morale, training and small arms appear excellent. Artillery relies heavily on the 120 millimeter piece. The air force is unimpressive, depending mostly on outdated Soviet type MIG-19's and IL-28 twin-jet medium bombers. I saw plenty of both on various airfields.

Maoism teaches: "Weapons are an important factor in war, but not the decisive one; it is man and not material that counts." Thus cunning (of which tunneling is an example), loyalty (insured by party control of the army) and ruse are vital to Chinese planning. Sun Tzu taught: "All warfare is based upon deception." Chairman Mao wrote: "The Red Army generally operates by surprise attacks."

Nevertheless, the nuclear-missile age and the break with Russia have had a sobering effect. Mao admitted to Nehru once that an atomic conflict

By DON WALTON

Well, whadya know? We've got an energy crisis.

It has been officially proclaimed by the President and we have all been admonished to act appropriately.

Get out the sweaters; when you leave the stadium, walk safely, don't drive; and all of that.

Meanwhile, we are supposed to conserve what we have in a painless and voluntary manner while he suspends pollution control requirements and fills the air with the soot and ash of coal gouged from the land.

Baloney! Only, baloney twice.

Baloney Number One: How did it come to this? If national "leaders" were not aware an energy shortage was approaching, they ought to be thrown out for ignorance. If they knew it, and failed to act earlier, they should be thrown out for incompetence.

Conservation measures were in order long ago — but no one had the guts to implement them. Development of new energy sources should have been started long ago — but no one had the vision or the drive or the interest in getting on with it.

Relations with oil-producing nations, particularly in the Mideast, have been ripe for improvement for a decade or more. But we persisted in treating them like enemies.

Baloney Number Two: So what do we do now? We ask people nicely to turn down the heat, nudging everyone very gently to cooperate in a voluntary manner (if they want to) while preparing to destroy the land and the air to produce more energy for those who don't want to.

You see, even when conservation measures are required, national "leaders" still don't have the guts to impose them.

Don Walton

C'mon, let's get with it. Mandatory conservation measures, as inconvenient as they may be, are far more acceptable than the President's decision to set the polluters and the scavengers loose on the land.

Keep the environmental standards and cut back the use of energy to whatever level is necessary while we get on with developing some pollution-free sources of future power supply.

That might mean an end to huge automobiles with massive engines; it might mean gasoline rationing; it might mean closure of some facilities during cold winter months; it might require some sacrifice and discomfort.

But the inconveniences which real conservation measures would produce now are well worth the price of saving what is left of the ravaged resources of our land and what is left of clean air in the country.

The Congress ought to take the President's half-hearted emergency plan and rewrite it, substituting mandatory conservation measures for the declaration of war on the environment.

Okay, great national "leaders," it's time to lead.

How 'bout those California voters?

They rejected Ronald Reagan's plan to put an artificial lid on governmental spending, thereby leaving themselves the flexibility with which to progress and grow and meet the needs of their changing society.

Obviously, Reagan's plan would have crippled the California society, leaving it unable to act in a united way, through government, to resolve its problems and develop its goals.

Those concerns apparently outweighed the selfish private interests to which Reagan had appealed. Save yourself money, he implored. Protect yourself from government and your elected representatives, he urged.

California voters were less base and selfish than the governor thought. They considered society's needs, and they determined not to limit their future.

Nebraska voters did that once, too.

It's worth remembering that Nebraskans, by a wide majority, rejected a proposed constitutional amendment in 1968 which would have prohibited a state income tax.

The vote was 331,987 to 183,328. Not exactly close.

That vote followed 1967 enactments of the state's sales and income tax law and came only two years after Nebraskans had wiped out an earlier 1965 income tax law on a referendum vote.

The constitutional amendment had been supported by conservative leaders within the Legislature and without, and by conservative spokesmen in both major political parties.

But Nebraska voters, faced with this tempting and selfish opportunity to rid themselves of a new tax, looked more to tax equity and the future — than to the private personal interests of the moment.

Not a bad thing to remember this week as the State Board of Equalization ponders 1974 tax rates.

JACK ANDERSON

The 'Enemies' List

Workers President Leonard Woodcock; to name a few. Noted Mondale: "I have no knowledge, of course, whether the IRS audit was related to the fact that I was on that list." Gardner took the same attitude. "We are so completely open in operations," he said, "we have not given the matter further thought."

Some 19% reported their phones had been tapped, and another 12% thought it likely. Among those who felt they were under electronic surveillance were Rep. Ron Dellums, D-Calif., and Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., both vigorous Nixon critics. Ms. Abzug, for example, heard a third voice cut in on a telephone conversation she was having with Assemblyman Al Blumenthal in 1972. She "called in a private investigator who confirmed that my phone was being tapped," she reported.

A full 23% were subjected to federal investigations, other than tax probes, by the FBI or other agencies. Former Ambassador to India John Kenneth Galbraith reported one of his speeches had been monitored by "Army intelligence agents." Rep. Parren Mitchell, D-Md., was investigated by the FBI after he got copies of the Media, Pa., FBI files.

Smaller percentages reported burglaries (though unsure whether the government committed them), "punitive enforcement actions," mail interception, corporate contract problems and (in the case of some groups) infiltration by Nixon agents.

Some of the harassment was more unique. For example, Walter Heller, a former economic adviser to President Kennedy, was supposed to be re-elected to the board of the Federal National Mortgage Association. Heller learned that the White House requested he be asked to "step down." Heller, burdened with job anyway, happily complied.

Heller suggested there was a "remote possibility" that his son, also named Walter Heller, had been turned down for a National Science Foundation grant renewal because "the sins of the father were being visited on the son." He noted: "It's the kind of thing one can't help thinking, given the mentality that lies behind the list."

Former Los Angeles Times reporter Stuart Loory told how he had written a personality sketch which irritated Dr. Henry Kissinger. The annoyed Kissinger called in Loory's boss and told him, so Loory reported: "I don't care who you send to cover the White House, but I never want to see Stuart Loory again."

Educator George Fischer, of Chicago, reported his astonishment at finding one of his letters to a relative had been opened and stamped: "Opened by Mistake by the Treasury Department." Fischer also complained that he had been audited every year since 1969 and he suspected his phone is tapped.

"I feel," he replied to the ACLU questionnaire, "that the Administration has no doubt violated the Bill of Rights on many counts. My own personal rights, if not violated, have been abused."

The ACLU tallies show the government came down hardest on blacks, newsmen, academic types and, more particularly, on "enemies" living in or near New York City, Washington and Boston — in other words, the "Eastern Establishment."

FOOTNOTE: I was one of the 95 "enemies" who answered the ACLU query. In my case, federal agents have followed me, a federal grand jury has investigated my sources, my long-distance phone records have been seized, my reporters have been harassed and, in one case, arrested.

"How is Clarence Kelley fitting into the shoes of the late J. Edgar Hoover?" asks a Denver reader.

Kelley appears to be a quietly able FBI chief. He already has had a stabilizing effect on the FBI. At the same time, he has ordered his underlings to admit their mistakes and to take their lumps in the press.

A secret Interior Department study warns that the nation's grizzly bear population is in danger of extinction because their food supply has been suddenly closed down.

In Yellowstone National Park, the last major stronghold of the big beasts, the grizzlies have fed for years on campers' garbage. Six years ago, a study urged that the dumps be closed gradually so the bears could return to their old eating habits in the wild.

Instead, the National Park Service has shut down the dumps abruptly, thus driving the panicky bears into campsites and off-park lands, where they have been shot.

The new secret study, done by Interior consultants, warns: "The grizzly bear population in Yellowstone Park and surrounding areas has declined rapidly and will continue to do so if conditions remain unaltered."

Survey: Nixon's Standing Remains Low

Monday, November 12, 1973 The Lincoln Star 5

By LOUIS HARRIS

Despite receiving substantial credit for his handling of the recent Middle East crisis, President Nixon's standing with the American people on the job he is doing in the White House continues to hover around 32% positive, matching his all-time low for the third month in a row.

Here is the trend of public assessment of President Nixon over the past year, the latest taken in a special telephone poll of 1,077 households nationwide Oct. 26-29:

"How would you rate the job President Nixon is doing as President — excellent, pretty good, only fair, or poor?"

OVER-ALL NIXON RATING

At the time of his re-election and again in February, after he secured a peace agreement in Vietnam, Nixon soared close to his high-water mark during his tenure in the White House. But as the Watergate disclosures began breaking in the spring and throughout the summer, his standing declined steadily until it apparently bottomed out at the current 32% positive.

This over-all measure, however, only begins to tell the story of President Nixon's current troubles in the White House. This latest survey asked the public to rate the President on 21 specific dimensions. The cross section was asked: "Now let me ask you some specifics of the job President Nixon is doing. How would you rate President Nixon on (read list) — excellent, pretty good, only fair, or poor?"

a 74-17% negative rating from the public, up from 71-21% negative in September. Yet, during this period, the President reversed himself and agreed to give Judge Sirica the tapes in question. Although 56% thought he "did the right thing" in handing over the tapes, it is apparent most people think the President was forced to take this step, and therefore he receives little credit in this area.

Obviously, Richard Nixon is still a President with a serious crisis of confidence on his hands. By and large, he received plaudits for his action in the Middle East crisis, but the simultaneous explosion on the Watergate issue, with the firing of Archibald Cox and the resignation of Attorney General Richardson, just about washed out his temporary gains from his handling of the U.S. role in the Arab-Israeli war.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Monday

Persons born on the 4th, 13th, 22nd and 31st of any month, but especially under Leo, Aquarius and Scorpio, are frank, fluent, willing to tear down in order to rebuild and, very often, are separated emotionally or psychologically from parents and peers.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You now have greater freedom of thought and action. Roadblock is removed. Journey becomes more plausible. Creative endeavors are likely to succeed. Give of yourself. Your own style, intent is of paramount importance.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Questions about who owns what will be clarified.

You get more concise picture of budget, tax problems. You also get rid of burden you have been carrying for no good reason. Aries, Libra persons may be involved.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Lunar cycle is at peak — get started on project. Highlight independence, original approach. Strive for new contacts, outlook. Judgment, intuition will be on target. Trust yourself. Leo plays key role.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Follow through — apply knowledge. Put theory into practice. One who taught you in past could make surprise reappearance. What was a secret can now be openly discussed. Toss aside fears, suspicions. You're on right track.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent is on social activity, fulfillment of some desires. You receive flattery, compliments. Maintain balance. Keep perspective in focus. Sagittarius, Gemini persons figure in prominent ways.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Civic project could lend prestige. Co-operate. Assignment will pay dividends. One in authority will press button for green light. Know it and proceed with confidence. You will be dealing from position of greater strength.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You see with clarity. You discern reasons. Your philosophy is reinforced. You plan travel. You want to learn and a language fascinates you. Write to one at a distance. Ask questions. You can obtain valuable information.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Money may be on the line. Purchases, time plans could be featured. Family member makes request. Acquiesce. Peace at home is now more important than usual. Know it and don't rock domestic boat. Taurus is in picture.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Judgment may be slightly off base. Know it and hold back on definite commitment. Co-operate with partner, mate. Be open to suggestion without being naive. Strive for realistic appraisal. Leave pie-in-sky dreams for others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You get to heart of matters — production and costs. In personal matters, you also find where you stand. One born under your sign could play significant role. Pressure is on and you will have to find ways to relax.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Relationship is put to test. Settle differences through frank discussion. Aries individual could have temper tantrum. Don't compound error. Finish tasks. Round out plans. Creative changes are in offing.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Cut through to basic issues. Beating about bush will not provide answers. Direct approach brings results. Leo, Aquarius persons might figure in important ways. New contact leads toward goal. Know it, act accordingly.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have sense of humor and must be aware of diet. You have many admirers and also those who envy you. January and October were significant months. In December, you get chance for new start. Romantic interests will be stimulated. Sagittarius, Gemini persons are drawn to you.

Rhodesia Notes 8th Anniversary Of Breakaway;

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — White-ruled Rhodesia observed the eighth anniversary of its breakaway from Britain Sunday, but Prime Minister Ian Smith denied reports that secret meetings were being held in an effort to resolve the deadlock.

In an independence day broadcast, Smith also denied that British representatives recently visited Rhodesia, and said there were no plans at the moment for further meetings with British envoys.

Smith said the past year had been a difficult one for the country with Rhodesia's worst drought ever, coupled with greatly increased terrorist infiltration.

He said in the past year government forces killed more than 170 African nationalist guerrillas, and that many other terrorists have been captured.

Soviets Announce Cosmos 609 Launch

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced Sunday the launch of Cosmos 609 in the top-secret series of unmanned space vehicles.

Tass said the satellite, launched Saturday, went into an orbit with a high point of 226 miles, a low point of 133 miles and a 90-minute period of revolution around the earth.

Ask the Old Farmer: Many years ago when I was a boy, my father would refer to a milk drink he remembered when he was small. It was called "honny clabber" and was great when served cold. Can you tell me about this and is it available today under some other name? W. H., York, Pa.

Bonny Clabber is simply milk that has soured until the solids separate from the water. The drink was made by beating up this mixture with sugar and sometimes a dash of nutmeg. We don't know of its ever having been made to sell, but folks made it at home.

Chile Prisoners Are Transferred

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The last political prisoners were transferred from the National Stadium in Santiago over the weekend, the Interior Ministry said.

It said 736 went to a deserted area 700 miles north of the capital, and another 109 were transferred to a smaller stadium in Santiago, where they are to await the results of military trials.

Opry, Hee Haw Star Murdered

... Akeman, Wife Found Dead

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — David "Stringbean" Akeman, Grand Ole Opry and Hee Haw star, and his wife, Estelle, were found murdered at their rural Davidson County home, Nashville police said.

Their bodies were discovered by L.M. "Grandpa" Jones, also an Opry and Hee Haw regular. Jones came to the house about 5:30 a.m. Sunday to meet his long-time friend for an arranged hunting trip in Highland County, Virginia.

Jones found Mrs. Akeman's body lying in the yard in front of the house. Stringbean's banjo leaning on the front doorway and Stringbean himself lying face down on the floor inside the three room house, police said. Akeman also owned a large 10-room house on the same property, but they lived in the smaller one.

Robbery was the apparent motive, Detective Lt. Tom Cathey said.

"He was known to carry large amounts of cash in his overalls, but we don't know if that was the case last night," Cathey said.

No arrests had been made Sunday afternoon, but police said they were looking for two or more persons.

Police said Stringbean had been shot once and his wife three times. The house had been ransacked and some of Mrs. Akeman's personal effects were missing.

Cathey said Stringbean had performed at the Grand Ole Opry Saturday night and had left there around 10:30. Police speculated that the robbers had planned to burglarize the house during the Opry performance.

Opry stars Roy Acuff and Bill Carlisle, both friends of Akeman's, told police Sunday they talked to him briefly after his Opry performance and believed he left for home soon thereafter.

'STRINGBEAN'... country humorist.

Cathey said Stringbean never drove and he believed Mrs. Akeman had driven their 1974 Cadillac back from the Opry.

He said Stringbean was apparently shot as he opened the front door, and Mrs. Akeman was shot as she fled the car, which was found Sunday at a nearby quarry.

"He used to carry from $500 to $1,500 with him in his bib overalls," Carlisle said. "About three months ago, I patted him where he used to keep his wad and he told me that he no longer carried it."

"I shook hands with String as he left the stage last night," Acuff said. "He used to keep some money on him, but I'm not sure that he had any last night."

Cathey said that police found six bank books in Stringbean's name worth "a great deal of money."

17 Slayings Linked By California Police

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — California and Arizona authorities have linked 17 killings to two men charged last week with the slayings of two Victor, Calif., families, police said Sunday.

The search continued in the Arizona desert Sunday for an 18th possible victim, detectives said.

The discovery of three more victims — two Sunday in the Sierra Nevada foothills of California and one Saturday on the Arizona desert — brought to 17 the total number of murder victims police say they have linked to William Luther Steelman, 28, of Lodi, Calif., and Douglas E. Gretzler, 22, of New York City.

The two men have been formally charged with 11 counts of murder — nine in San Joaquin County and two in Mesa, Ariz.

Both are in San Joaquin County Jail in connection with the execution-style slaying of nine persons, including two children, who were found in the San Joaquin County community of Victor in the spacious ranch-style home of grocer Walter Parkin.

Steelman and Gretzler were captured the next day without resistance in downtown Sacramento, 30 miles north of the Victor murder scene.

San Joaquin County Sheriff's Inspector Kenneth Stewart said five more bodies were discovered in Arizona and California with the help of information gathered by detectives in interviews with Steelman and Gretzler.

Prior to their arrest, Arizona authorities had issued murder warrants against Steelman and Gretzler for the slayings last month of Robert Robbins, 19, and Katherine Mestites, 21, whose bodies were found bound and shot Oct. 28 in a house trailer near Mesa. They also were investigating the death of Gilbert Sierra, 19, of Tucson, whose body was found last week on the desert.

Then on Friday, the day after Steelman and Gretzler were arrested, Tucson authorities who questioned the two defendants in Stockton discovered the bodies of Michael B. Sandberg, 28, and his wife, Patricia, 32, in their Tucson apartment.

The Sandbergs, both graduate students at the University of Arizona, were found bound and shot in the back of the head in the same manner as the Mesa and Victor victims.

On Saturday the body of an unidentified victim was found in a sleeping bag on the Superstition desert by another team of detectives working on information gathered from an interview with Steelman and Gretzler. Tests were under way to determine the cause of death. Investigators said they believe there may be one more victim on the desert.

Two nude, decomposed bodies were found on Sunday in a remote creek bed near the Sierra foothills town of Oakdale, 40 miles south of the Victor murder scene. The throat of one victim was slit and the other apparently had been strangled.

The next meeting of the Nebraska Power Review Board will be November 20, 1973, in the Board's offices located at 1220 "J" Street, Lincoln, Nebraska. The meeting will convene at 4:30 P.M. An agenda of the said meeting will be available at the Board's offices. #001268-1T, Nov. 12

PUBLIC NOTICE OF HEARING UNITED STATES ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

For state program approval for control of discharges to navigable waters. The State of Nebraska has submitted a request for approval of its State program for control of discharges of pollutants to navigable waters under Section 402 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 (P.L. 92-500).

A public hearing to consider this request will be held on December 8, 1973, at the Nebraska Educational Television Building, Studio 1, 1800 N. 33rd Street, Lincoln, Nebraska, starting at 2:00 p.m. The hearing will be televised live from the studio and can be viewed on KUON, Channel 12.

The hearing panel will consist of the Environmental Protection Agency Administrator, or his representative, who will serve as the Presiding Officer, the Director of the Department of Environmental Control for the State of Nebraska, or his representative, and the Regional Administrator, Region VII, or his representative.

Section 402 of the Act provides that the State's program submission should show that the State has adequate authority under its laws to issue permits for discharge of pollutants upon conditions which comply with all pertinent requirements of the Act, to abate violations of the permit (including civil and criminal penalties), to insure that the Administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the public, any other affected State, and other affected agencies are given notice of each permit application and are given the opportunity for a public hearing before the permit is issued. The complete description of the State program elements necessary for State participation in this program, designated "National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System," was published in Volume 37 of the Federal Register, December 22, 1972 (40 CFR 124), beginning at page 28390.

The State of Nebraska proposes that the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control, 1424 "P" Street, Lincoln, Nebraska (area code 402-471-2186), operate this program for control of discharges into navigable waters of the State in compliance with the requirements of the Act. James E. Exon, Governor of Nebraska, Betty Abbott, Chairman, Environmental Control Council of Nebraska, and J. L. Higgins, Director, Nebraska Department of Environmental Control.

This request and program description may be inspected by the public at the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control, or at the Regional Library, U.S. Department of the Interior, Agency Region VII, 1735 Baltimore, Kansas City, Missouri 64108 (area code 816-374-5828).

All interested persons wishing to comment upon the State's request or its program submission are invited to appear at the public hearing to present their views. Written comments may be presented at the hearing or submitted by December 15, 1973, either in person or by mail, to the Regional Office of the Environmental Protection Agency, Region VII, at the previously mentioned address. Oral statements will be received and considered, but for accuracy of the record, all testimony should be submitted in writing. Statements should summarize extensive written material so that there will be time for all interested persons to be heard. Persons submitting written statements are encouraged to furnish additional copies for the use of the hearing panel and other interested persons.

All comments received by December 15, 1973, or presented at the public hearing, will be considered by the Environmental Protection Agency Regional Administrator in making his recommendations to the Administrator regarding Nebraska's request for State program approval.

Jerome H. Svore, Regional Administrator, Region VII, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, #001267-5T, Nov. 12, 13, 14, 15, 16

Weaving—A Money-Saving Hobby

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

Basic curiosity about fibers used in weaving and knitting has led to a relaxing, money-saving hobby for two Lincoln women.

Ginny Porterfield and Ann Hemphill are reviving the age-old art of spinning.

Mrs. Porterfield was the first of the spinning duo to take her place at the wheel.

The natural curiosity came to her during weaving classes at the YWCA. "I wanted to know how fibers were made," she said. It was then that she decided there was no better way to learn about fibers than to spin some herself.

So Mrs. Porterfield found a spinning wheel — "They aren't hard to find. There are a lot of them made on the east and west coasts and in Canada; there are lots of spinners there" — and another spinner to instruct her in the mechanics of making her yarn.

That was back in '68, and since then Mrs. Porterfield has used wool, flax, silk, alpaca, camel hair, cotton — "anything that spins" — to make yarn which she then weaves into such articles as scarves, stoles and afghans. She someday hopes to make her own yardage.

"Yardage is the ultimate goal," agreed Mrs. Hemphill.

Although she also "was always curious" about spinning, it took Mrs. Hemphill longer to finally try her hand at the art.

It's been about a year now since she began spinning the yarn which she uses to knit sweaters and ski accessories.

Both find spinning less expensive than buying the material outright. "But we would still do it even if it were more expensive," Mrs. Hemphill observed.

Wool is her major source of yarn, but Mrs. Hemphill revealed she also has tried dog hair which is "fluffy, like angora."

What do her children think of their mother's newly-found hobby? If their actions are any indication, they are pretty proud of Mom.

"When the older ones bring their friends home, they say 'This is what Mom does,' pointing to the spinning wheel," she said.

"Young people today are interested in crafts," Mrs. Hemphill added, noting that she usually is called upon to demonstrate the use of the spinning wheel for her youngsters' friends.

Poem Is Traced

CONFIDENTIAL (AND MANY THANKS) to all who wrote to inform me that the poem I was trying to track down is: "Which the Chicken, Which the Egg." And it goes like this: "He drinks because she scolds, he thinks, She thinks she scolds because he drinks. And neither will admit what's true. That he's a sot and she's a shrew." (Ogden Nash)

And the first person to get the facts to me was Carol Ritter, the gracious, wideawake librarian of the Woonsocket, S.D., Public Library. (Woonsocket's population is 835.)

dear abby

he's out of debt. Now that you have the facts, here is my question: Do you think I should give my daughters baby showers?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: It isn't proper for a close member of the family to give showers. They are usually given by friends.

Valuable Forest Crops Ignored By Landowners

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Nebraska landowners are overlooking opportunities to make money from idle land in creek beds and odd corners of their holdings, according to Ellsworth Benson, state extension forester at the University of Nebraska.

"Most people just ignore these spots of land, occasionally harvesting some logs or some walnut trees but they could harvest some good timber with very little extra work," he said.

Benson and others in the NU forestry group are available to take timber surveys to estimate the potential value of trees and aid in planning a tree crop.

Walnut trees are so valuable that there are reports of people who have had their trees cut and hauled away, much like rustled cattle. "A good tree that is straight, making a large log, could be worth from $400 to $600, depending on its length," Benson said. The increasing price of walnut has seen some use of the tree tops for gun stocks, table legs and even bowls and other products.

Benson suggests that farmers consider removing limbs up to two inches thick on the lower parts of walnut trees to make the lower area free of knots. It makes better veneer for furniture manufacturing.

The same technique increases the value of other types of timber.

Another technique that will force the trees to grow tall, straight and nearly free of knot-producing limbs is to plant them quite thick.

"This forces them to compete with each other, producing better trees," Benson said. Eventually you will have to take some of them out, but you always have some trees that just grow crooked or split. Remove the poor ones to give the better trees a chance to produce more profitable wood products," he suggested.

Creekbeds that flood regularly can be a profitable place to grow walnut trees.

"A good fertile well-watered lowland area will sometimes put two inches on a tree in thickness in as little as two years. This will double the value of a good-sized walnut tree," he said.

Such areas usually produce elm, box elder, hackberry, ash and soft maple trees, with oaks and other varieties appearing in higher areas on banks.

Benson estimates there are about 60 wood mills that process trees into timber products of some kind scattered throughout Nebraska providing a market for a wide variety of trees.

Wildlife also benefit from good tree farming methods as they use the area for cover and sites for homes near fields that provide food.

BENSON . . . takes rough measure of tree to estimate board feet.

Spotlight on Agriculture

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Manure is better than ever, according to Louis Daigler, extension soils specialist at the NU Panhandle Research Station.

Apparently today's more concentrated rations for livestock are resulting in better quality manure for fertilizer.

With the shortage of commercial fertilizer and higher prices for it as well, the old-fashioned kind is looking better all the time. It still smells bad, however.

Officials charged with maintaining dams and bridges are hoping the energy shortage will result in some people cutting down dead trees for firewood.

Floods are taking the trees downstream where they lodge under bridges. Trash collects and pretty soon the water is running over the top of the bridge instead of under it. If it goes on long enough, the bridge is washed away.

Dead elm trees burn well. Foresters tell me there is no danger of spreading the disease that kills elms if the bark is removed before the wood is piled.

This is one way of converting a hazard to bridges into an energy-saving resource.

Emergency rates allowing low-cost shipment of hay to the drought-stricken areas of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana will provide a good market for Nebraska hay. Unfortunately, the shortage of baling wire is closing the door to much Nebraska hay they would otherwise be shipped west, leaving green dollars for green hay.

City folks ought to be worrying about the increased prices farmers are paying for machines, parts, fuel and fertilizer.

Farmers tell me they are paying twice as much for diesel fuel and propane as they did a year ago. Fertilizer prices are due to shoot up now that controls have been lifted.

Parts, new equipment, wire, posts, livestock supplies and everything else a farmer buys has gone up.

Farmers have to make a profit on everything they raise. They can't set prices on what they sell, but they can and do quit producing a product when the income is less than the outgo.

This tends to set a floor price under food at the supermarket because the demand for a product drives the price up high enough to assure production of the product.

Many dairy farmers are quitting because, even with higher prices for milk, they are losing money. High feed costs are killing the livestock producer, but unless the price of grain stays high enough to pay the fuel, fertilizer and parts bill, there isn't going to be much grain, either.

The latest effort on coyote control, without killing anything else, is a collar to be worn by a suicide squad of sheep that will protect the flock.

The collar is made of sheepskin, complete with wool. Since coyotes attack throats of sheep, they will bite into the collar and die. Some sneaky scientist has rigged the collar with a tube of poison so the coyote gets a moisture of mutton and self-inflicted death.

The sheep wearing the collar will be sprayed with something to make them extra attractive to the coyote. The theory is that this will kill only the naughty coyote who attacks sheep, leaving the rest of the cute little dog-like animals unmolested.

With the spray on the suicide sheep, the rest of the flock presumably will be left alone so they won't need a collar. The method is said to avoid killing dogs, which attack sheep from the rear only.

Poisons are still banned from being used for coyote control, but the cyanide gun will soon be legal again as a result of a change of heart in Washington. This should make efforts by professional game control people more effective than the hunt and shoot method has been.

Long secret membership in the National Farmers Organization (NFO) has been published as a result of an antitrust suit. Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska are the top three NFO states. Rhode Island is the only mainland state that does not have a state NFO. There apparently are dues-paying NFO members in about half of the nation's counties.

Omaha School Plans To Check Absent Children

Omaha (AP) — Effective Monday, Crestridge Elementary School will make a check on all pupils not accounted for in the classroom when the bell rings.

A child was kidnapped enroute to the school last week, but was released unharmed about three hours later.

Principal Ermagrace Reilly said the phone checks were originally suggested four years ago, but "impetus is always up when something like this kidnapping happens."

Under the system, parents who know their children will be absent may notify the school between 8:30 a.m. and 9:15 a.m. Thereafter, a call will be made to the parents.

Miss Reilly estimated that the project may require about 60 calls on some days.

She said the Parent-Teacher Association is sponsoring the installation and maintenance of the special phone, and will provide parents to man it.

School Lunch Crunch Felt

By United Press International

The school lunch crunch, brought on by higher than anticipated food prices, has caused a bigger bite to be taken out of family and school district budgets.

But as yet, a state official said in an interview, there have been no casualties among the ranks of school lunch programs.

"There has been talk of curtailing or cutting off school lunch programs," said Allen Elliott, head of the State Education Department's food services division, "but to our knowledge no one has done that yet."

Elliott added it appears that no school in the state has escaped the situation.

"Food is high priced and as a result school lunch programs are having a tough go of it," he said, "and you can say that about any school with a program."

Double Pressure The situation the schools have found themselves in, causing some to consider curtailing actions, is being caused by pressure from both families and state law, Elliott said.

On the family side, meal rate increases ranging from five cents to 20 cents per meal across the state have caused immediate declines in program participation by students.

That hasn't however, been true in all cases, Elliott said. "I guess the parents in some areas of the state figure it's going to cost more no matter where the kids eat — at home or at school," he said.

There's another situation, Elliott said, where the parents apparently feel even with increases in meal rates the school offers a pretty good deal.

As an example, the official said at Lexington, meal rates went up 10 cents. But he said even though total enrollment dropped there has been an increase in the number of meals served.

On the state law side, Elliott said, is a provision built into a law which made an additional $20 million in local school aid available this year. The law said district budgets couldn't increase from one year to the next by more than about 6.5%. The penalty for going over the limit would be a dollar for dollar aid loss.

"Some schools are having a hard time staying under the limit anyway," Elliott said. "This situation could put them in a real tight spot."

As to the final outcome of the situation, the official said both he and local schools should be better able to assess trends by the end of the month for future planning purposes.

November, Elliott said, is usually the first real test of school lunch program participation and the number of meals served during that particular month generally wind up as the school year average.

Road Mishaps Claim 2 More Nebraskans

By The Associated Press

Two more Nebraskans have died in traffic accidents.

Their deaths raise to 377 the number of persons who have met death on Nebraska streets and roadways this year, compared with 421 on Nov. 11, 1972.

Otto Allison, 45, of Dix, died Sunday in a Cheyenne, Wyo. hospital of head injuries suffered Friday night in the collision of his school bus and a truck about 23 miles north of Kimball.

The bus carrying about 25 girls was enroute to Kimball from a football game at Bridgeport when it was in collision with a truck driven by William Stevens of Rapid City, S.D. at the junction of Highways 71 and 88.

Norma J. Ray, 45, of Spalding, was killed Saturday night in a one-car accident just east of Spalding on Route 91.

The State Patrol said her east-bound car apparently went out of control and went into a ditch.

Weekly Grain Report

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The worldwide oil crisis that developed from the latest Mideast war will have farmers throughout the world in a bad spot for fuel.

The cost of producing grain, which in turn will be reflected in higher livestock production costs, will eventually be felt by the consumer.

What makes the whole matter worse is that the newly awakened taste for meat and more expensive foods may be submerged in the higher price for fuel.

Higher costs for fuel means higher prices for everything we buy, use, drive, or wear and, in turn, results in fewer dollars available to buy food with.

This financial tragedy will force people back on a grain diet, which they won't like but may have to accept.

Fuel is used to propel tractors, planters, cultivators and harvesting equipment. It is also used to make weed and bug killers and is a vital requirement in manufacturing fertilizer.

Take away fuel from farmers and the people who make things farmers use and you reduce food production. Take away the dollars people will spend on food if they had the money and you create a terrible change in the market, food consumption patterns and in transportation channels between the farm and the consumer.

At this point the whole food supply system is in a big mess throughout the world. The ups and downs in fuel supply will affect the grain market tremendously.

Accord Protested

Tel Aviv (UPI) — About 75 persons demonstrated against the Israeli-Egyptian cease-fire agreement, charging the pact had been concluded too hurriedly and was a step toward "national suicide."

Large Turnout Expected At Wahoo Polls

Wahoo — Officials anticipate a big turnout of voters at the polls here Tuesday to determine if this community will have a new junior-senior high school. The $2.75 million bond, if approved, would provide funds for the purchase of property and construction of a new building and sports area. Although location of the proposed building has not been determined, it could be located somewhere in northwest Wahoo, according to school officials.

Albino Robin Spotted

Brock — A pure white robin was spotted in her yard recently by Mrs. Worth Young. She said a flock of robins has been gathering daily in her yard and the white bird appeared with the group one day. Mrs. Young donned a pair of binoculars and determined the white bird bore the same characteristics of a robin except for its pure white feathers.

Avoca — Stanely W. Smith of Basking Ridge, N.J., native of Avoca, has been named president of the 195 Broadway Corporation and an assistant vice president of its parent company, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. Smith, 41, was graduated from the University of Nebraska College of Engineering and received his master's degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith of Avoca.

'Walks For Freedom' Planned

Omaha (AP) — "MIA walks for freedom" will be held Thursday in Lincoln, Omaha, Norfolk and Seward, according to Al Vays, a former Omaha city councilman. He said the walks are an "attempt to draw attention to the plight of more than 1,200 Americans" who are listed as missing in action in the wake of the Vietnam War.

State Poultry Industries Meet Slated

Business management for poultry producers and business firms will be the theme of the annual convention of the Nebraska Poultry Industries to be held in Lincoln Dec. 4-6. Highlight of the meeting, set for the Villager Motel, will be the annual banquet scheduled for Wednesday night, Dec. 5. An all-industry dinner will be held the previous night.

Racing Highlights

Omaha—Side bets from the Nebraska State Racing Commission's annual two-day fall meeting here last week:

After discussing prospects for either building a new Lincoln race track or remodeling the present structure, State Fairgrounds general manager Henry Brandt turned to the immediate problem of the 1974 season.

Last season, the sharp first turn nearly caused a boycott of the jockeys from all 5½-furlong races which the riders claimed didn't allow enough distance to the first turn.

Brandt has decided to implement a suggestion by state steward Jack Fickler to put sand ("from the Platte River, where the best sand in the world is") on the track from the start of the six-furlong chute to around the first turn in an attempt to slow down the horses rounding the initial turn.

Brandt also said only four or six-furlong or races of a mile or longer would be held next season in Lincoln. While all parties noted they could "live with" that temporary solution for the 5½-furlong problem for one year, they stressed that progress on a new track by 1975 was almost a necessity.

In yet another move to upgrade an already first-class operation, Ak-Sar-Ben officials announced a video tape film patrol with cameras at the 3/8ths, 7/8ths and 5-16ths poles and on the roof would be installed for the 1974 season.

Extra Precautions

The cameras will all be equipped with high-powered zoom lenses capable of watching the slightest objects or movements anywhere on the grounds. Even the starting gate area before races will be scrutinized.

That camera operation, while allowing officials an instant replay look at objections, will also allow Ak-Sar-Ben to show the alleged foul on the closed circuit television screens. While the films of the foul would be seen on the screens, the public address announcer would explain why the stewards ruled as they did on the foul claim.

Ak-Sar-Ben also announced that despite a drastic increase in cost, color would be installed in the plant's closed circuit television system.

George Stryker, a former Omaha high school mathematics teacher, undertook a mathematical analysis of all 1973 exacta races at Ak-Sar-Ben.

He found that 20.9 per cent of favorites won exacta races, compared to 23.8 per cent winning favorites in all claiming races and Omaha's overall 30.5 average. Of the 110 exacta races last summer, 103 or 93.6 per cent were of the claiming variety.

He learned that 40.9 per cent of the favorites either ran first or second in the exacta races—a figure Racing Commission chairman Harry Farnham termed "fabulous." In all Omaha claiming races, 39.6 percent of the favorites finished in the top two.

"We want to keep the exacta races as formful as possible," Farnham noted. "One of the dangers of such races is to make them the 'cheapest race of that day's program. It has been shown that as the claiming price increases, so does the percentage of winning favorites. The worst race of the day shouldn't be an exacta race."

'Proud' Bellevue Gains Class A's Top Position

By RANDY YORK

Whether it's a reward for patience or justice finally being served, Bellevue is No. 1 again and couldn't be prouder.

The Chieftans, aced out of state football championships the last two years by Lincoln teams, finally got a break and backed into an apparent one itself over the weekend.

"It's certainly a different feeling. You'd rather go all the way yourself. But by the same token, you appreciate all the help you might get," Bellevue coach Bill James remarked after his club was promoted to No. 1 in wake of previous leader Creighton Prep's 21-20 loss to Omaha Westside in the Metro playoff.

"After we lost to Prep (12-9), we were looking for something to keep our kids up. And hoping for an upset in the playoff kept our attention pretty high," says

James. "A group of our coaches and almost all our kids were there watching."

The last two years Bellevue was the team on the outside, looking in. In 1971 when both Bellevue and Lincoln East had lost only to Lincoln Southeast, East was awarded a controversial state championship.

Last year, Bellevue was No. 1 all season until losing the Metro playoff to Omaha Rummel on a muddy field and finished behind unbeaten East and Lincoln Northeast.

"I think," says James, "that things are getting to be a little bit tougher in this state. I know our coaches think the Metro's being upgraded every year for better balance. I presume it's that way all over. I would hope that would emphasize a need for playoffs."

James, a Kearney State College graduate who played under coach Charlie Foster, has

The first-half running of veteran back Bill Brown plus John Gilliam's pass receiving led unbeaten Minnesota to a 28-7 victory over the Detroit Lions Sunday as the Vikings clinched at least a tie for the NFC Central Division Title.

The Minnesota defense was superb as the Vikings won their ninth straight game of the season and their 12th over the Lions, dating back to 1968.

With Minnesota trailing 7-0 late in the first period, Brown, who gained 102 yards in 19 rushes in the game, carried six times for 52 yards which climaxed with Brown punching over from the one.

Gilliam, Fran Tarkenton's favorite receiver all day, caught four passes for 102 yards and a TD in the second half.

In other action, Miami punished Baltimore 44-0, Green Bay stopped St. Louis, 25-21, the New York Jets upended New England, 33-13, Washington downed San Francisco 33-9, Dallas stopped the New York Giants, 23-10, Cincinnati shaded Buffalo, 16-13, Atlanta knocked off Philadelphia, 44-27, Cleveland topped Houston 23-13, Los Angeles beat New Orleans, 29-7, Denver cracked San Diego, 30-19 and Pittsburgh upset Oakland, 17-9.

Mercury Morris burst through the line for touchdown runs of 48 and 53 yards to ignite Miami's win over badly-outplayed Baltimore. Highlighting an overpowering defensive effort, cornerback Tim Foley scored two more touchdowns, running eight and five yards into the end zone with recoveries of blocked kicks.

Former Nebraska standout quarterback Jerry Tagge made his first start as a professional as he quarterbacked the Green Packers over St. Louis to snap a four-game Packer winless streak.

Tagge, whose only previous action all year came at the end of last week's game, engineered the Packers to a 22-7 halftime. He then watched the Cardinals surge to within 22-21 in the fourth quarter before bringing the Packers 58 yards in the final minutes to set up a nine-yard field goal by Chester Marcol.

Tagge put the Packers ahead 16-7 when he went in from the one following an 80-yard drive in the second quarter.

John Riggins and Emerson Boozer each ran for first-half touchdowns and third-string quarterback Bill Demory passed 31 yards to Jerome Barkum for another as the Jets took advantage of New England mistakes to defeat the Patriots.

Bill Kilmer threw for two second-half touchdowns and Brig

Owens set up two of Curt Knight's four field goals with an interception and fumble recovery to nail down Washington's victory over the 49ers.

Walt Garrison scored two Dallas touchdowns and, oft-maligned Charlie Waters, the one-time pigeon in the Dallas secondary, intercepted two passes and picked up a fumble to spark the Cowboys to victory over the Giants.

Horst Muhlmann kicked a 33-yard field goal with three seconds left to boost the Bengals to a victory over the Bills. O. J.

Simpson had earlier tied the score at 13-13 in the fourth quarter with a 32-yard TD run.

Wide receiver Ken Burrow caught two touchdown passes and Eddie Ray burst across for two TD's as surging Atlanta beat Philadelphia, the Falcons' fifth straight victory.

Steady Don Cockroft booted three field goals to boost his season's total to 18 and Mike Phipps scored on a one-yard sneak to pace Cleveland to its triumph over Houston.

Balding John Hadl connected on an 18-yard scoring pass to second-year back Laurence McCutcheon and David Ray booted three field goals as the Rams beat the Saints.

Veteran quarterback Charley Johnson threw two second-half touchdowns — 19 yards to Gene Washington and a 14-yarder to tight end Riley Odoms with 10:01 to play — to lead the Broncos over the Chargers.

Pittsburgh's defense, with Dwight White and Mike Wagner picking off a pass and a fumble that led to touchdowns, sparked the Steelers to a victory over the Raiders.

Kansas State scout and recruiter Bruce Mays believes the Nebraska-Oklahoma game will be a great game.

"Nebraska has a well-balanced team and will give Oklahoma a tough game," Mays said Saturday after watching the Huskers beat Iowa State, 31-7.

"It's hard to believe that the same Nebraska team was tied by Oklahoma State and lost to Missouri earlier this season." Mays was not only impressed with the Husker offense and defense, but also the team's poise.

"Nebraska never let anything bother it and just came right back to put more pressure on Iowa State," Mays said. "And Nebraska was able to take advantage of Iowa State's mistakes early in the game."

"By getting that early lead, Nebraska forced Iowa State out of its game plan trying to get back in the game."

Another thing that Mays noted was the Huskers' depth and quality. "Nebraska didn't do anything unexpected because they have such great material and depth that everyone stayed rested," he pointed out.

"We don't have that kind of depth at Kansas State and we also have several starters out now with injuries."

Mays thinks "it will take a great effort on our part, if we want to be in the game with Nebraska. We'll have to play our best game of the year and not make any mistakes," he continued.

"We have a good sound program at Kansas State, but we haven't been able to do anything with it and we'll have to in order to stay with Nebraska."

With athletes like Isaac Jackson and Henry Childs, Mays believes the Kansans will have to do two things against the Huskers.

"Jackson and Childs will have to get our offense going and keep it going with key plays," Mays said. "And we'll have to play an honest defense."

"If we can't control the ball, Nebraska will really give us trouble since Humm is such a great quarterback in running the offense."

Mays was particularly impressed with I-back Tony Davis and split end Frosty Anderson, as well as Humm, on offense and tackle John Dutton on defense.

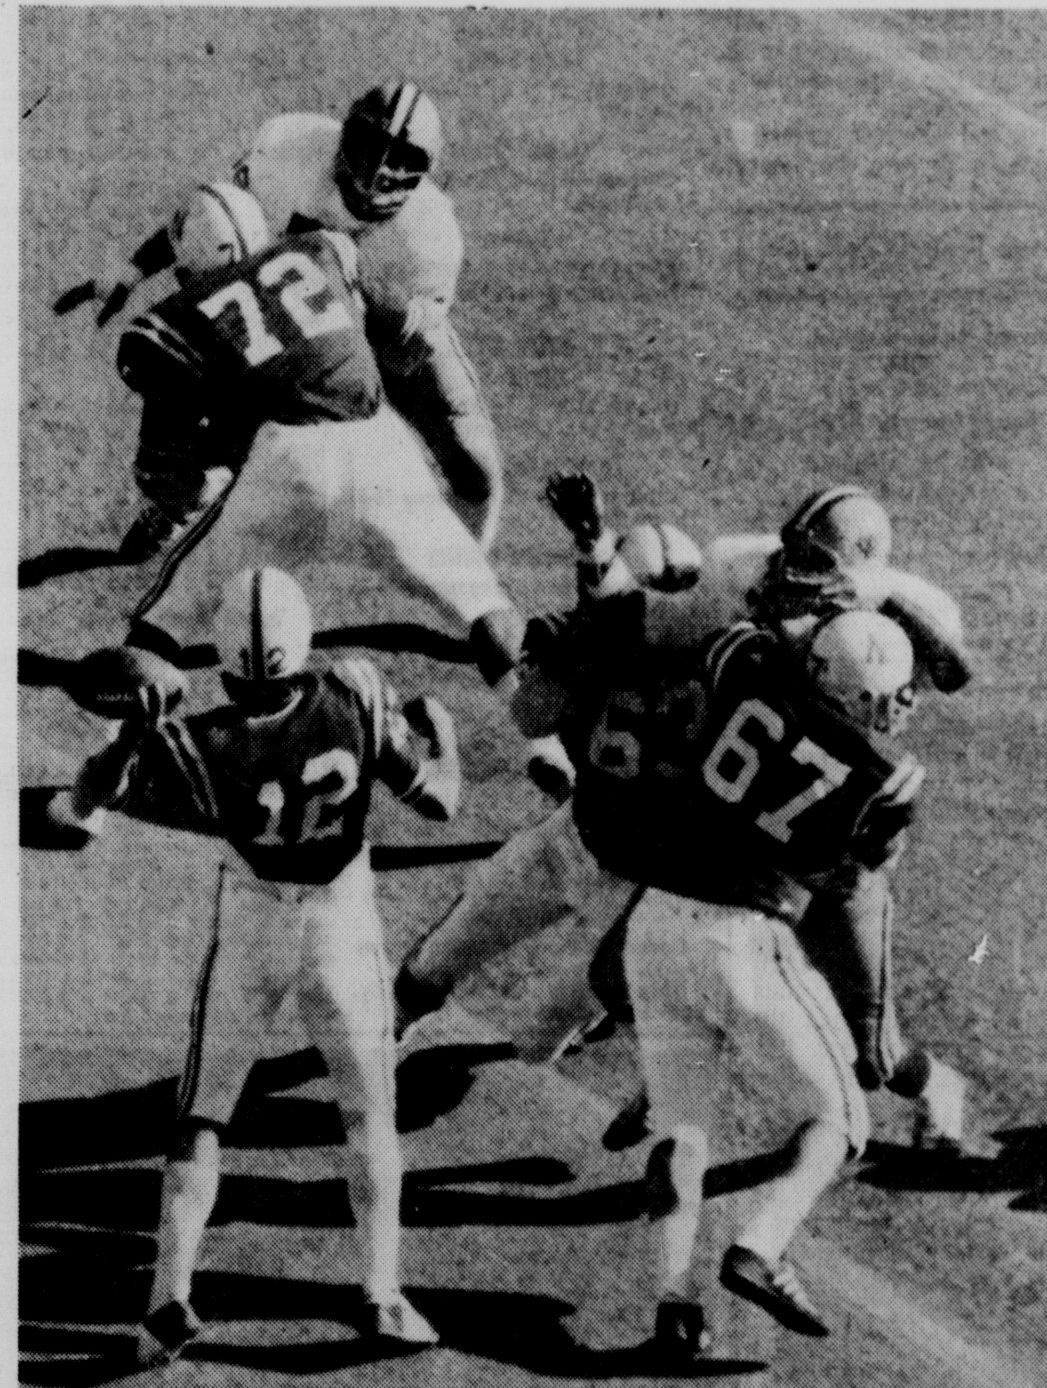

"Nebraska does a tremendous job of pass blocking for Humm," he said. "Humm gets more than enough time to throw and that is great considering the line kept out the likes of Iowa State's 'Big Daddy' Hunt."

"Nebraska is just a great all-around team and we'll have to give out an extraordinary effort to be in the game."

Broyles: Trouble Ahead

Little Rock, Ark. (UPI) — Arkansas football coach Frank Broyles said Sunday that college football "as we know it" may be on the way out.

"It's now a question of the rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer," said Broyles. "If it keeps up, pretty soon, people are going to be interested in only about 15 or 20 teams in the country."

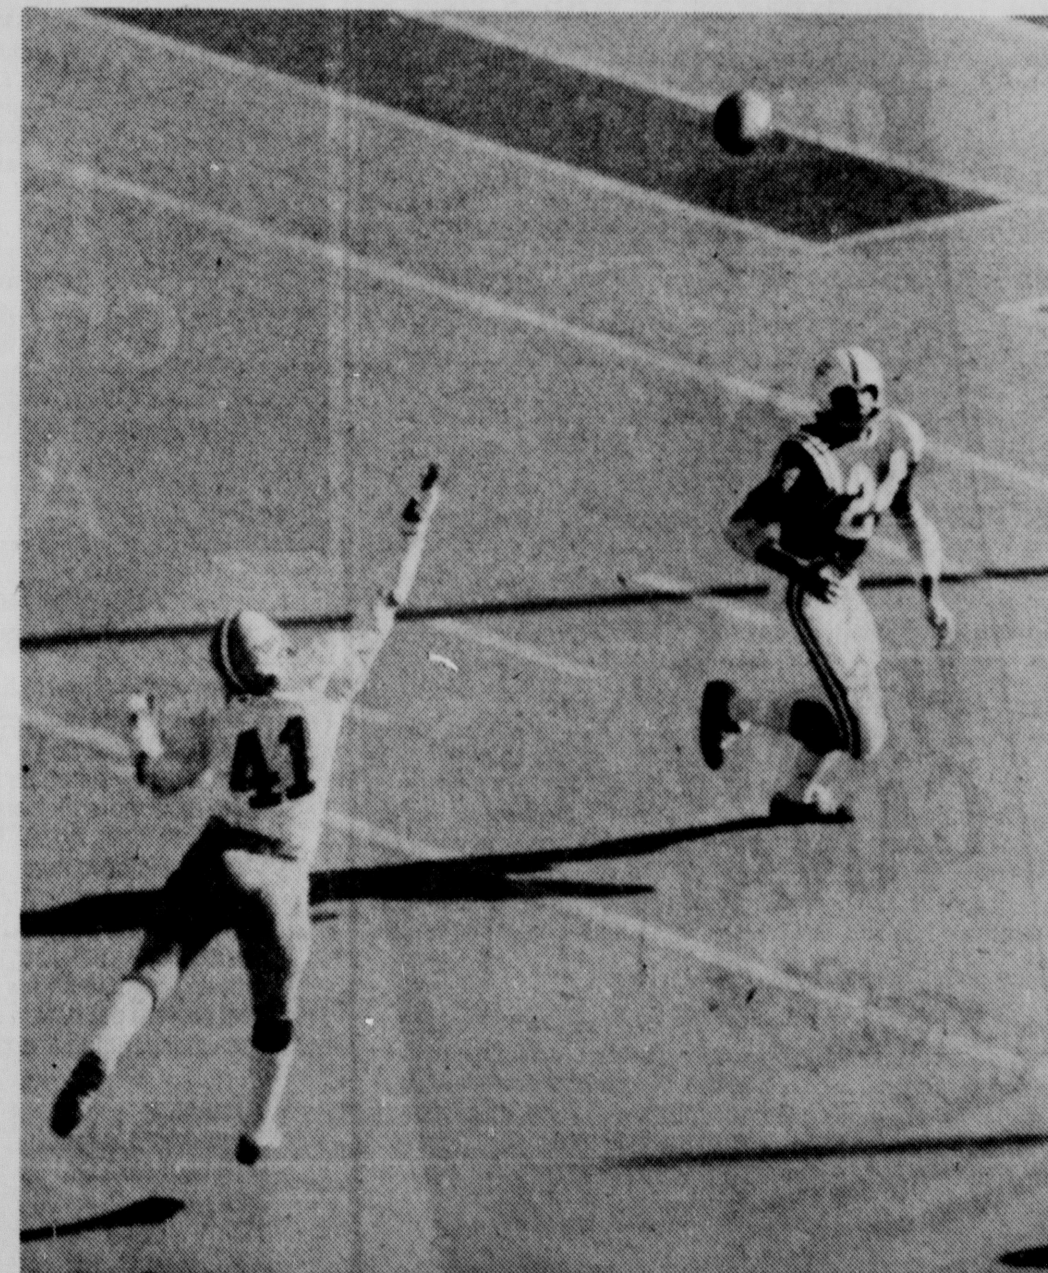

Broyles said Arkansas attendance was down 6 per cent this year and he understood attendance was also down in general in the Southwest Conference.

He said Arkansas, which is having a so-so year, "is in the black" financially, but he indicated that may not be the case elsewhere in the conference.

"It's no secret the football program funds most schools' athletic programs and some athletic programs may be in trouble," Broyles told newsmen following the taping of his weekly television show.

"College football as we know it is in trouble," Broyles said.

In Sunday's parade magazine, Broyles was quoted in an article on recruiting violations. "If something's not done," Broyles was quoted as saying, "the lid's going to blow off. There is going to be a real explosion in this conference."

Quarterhorse Racing Sought

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—The Kearney Agriculture and Racing Association hopes to stage quarterhorse races at a new Nebraska racetrack in the spring of 1975.

The group has filed papers of incorporation and has presented its plans to the Nebraska Racing Commission.

The association has an option on 134 acres of land south of Kearney, with about 30 additional acres available, and hopes to build a racetrack.

The incorporators are attorney Thomas Tye and John W. O'Brien, a quarterhorse breeder-owner.

Harry Farnham of Omaha, commission chairman, said "there's room for both," referring to quarterhorses joining thoroughbreds in the Nebraska pari-mutuel program.

been a masterful architect in developing Bellevue into a football power since starting there in 1957.

He, however, prefers to analyze the Chieftans' success since the Metro Conference started in 1965.

Since that time, Bellevue has won 175 games, lost 25 and tied 3 on the sophomore, junior varsity and varsity level. The Chieftans, since 1965, also have finished fifth, sixth, tied for first, sixth, fourth, third, second, third and now first in the ratings.

"We like to measure what we've done since joining the Metro," says James. "It (the league) gave us a chance to develop a type of program we didn't have."

Bellevue has lost only once in each of the last three seasons. In this fall's loss to Prep, the Chieftans were decisive statistical winners, but fumbled on their 7-yard line late in the fourth quarter to lose.

All-American Award Given To Karthaus

Wheaton, Ill. — Cliff Karthaus of Nebraska Wesleyan finished sixth at the NCAA Division III cross-country championships, and was named to the NCAA cross-country all-American team here Saturday.

Karthaus finished the five-mile course with a time of 24:47.0 to lead the Plainsmen to a 17th place finish of the 34 teams entered.

Other finishers for Wesleyan were: Jim French, 44th; Joe Neneman, 110th; Andy Aiken, 144th; Dave Soper, 210th; and Duane Coates, 214th.

Nebraska Prep Ratings

By Randy York

Class A

- 1 — Bellevue (8-1)
- 2 — Omaha South (7-2)
- 3 — Creighton Prep (8-2)
- 4 — Omaha Benson (7-2)
- 5 — Omaha Westside (7-3)
- 6 — Lincoln East (7-2)
- 7 — North Platte (8-1-1)
- 8 — Grand Island (7-3)
- 9 — Lincoln Northeast (5-3-1)
- 10 — Millard (7-2)

Comment — Metro champ Westside advances to fifth after posting 21-20 upset over previous pacesetter Prep. The four Omaha schools rated above Westside lost only to top 10 members. A season-opening loss to unranked Omaha North (4-4) mars Westside's bid for higher ranking. North Platte, winner of eight straight, threatens to crack top five. Friday's Big 10 playoff, sending Grand Island to North Platte, could be the springboard.

Fairbury-Blair Match Tops Football Playoffs

By RANDY YORK

With most Class B football attention showered on Lexington and Lincoln Pius X, two unbeaten — Fairbury and Blair — almost have been lost in the shuffle.

But the pair squares off Wednesday in the Twin Rivers Conference playoff at Blair and whoever wins likely will volunteer itself for any state championship discussion.

"I know we definitely will, if we should happen to win," says Fairbury coach Bob Gausman, whose Jeffs have recorded four straight shutouts in a 9-0 season. "We'd like to play either one of those teams," adds Gausman. "A situation like this should support the playoffs that we coaches and athletic directors

Lincoln Welding Claims Victory In Apple Bowl

Lincoln Welding defeated Ralston's Roberts Dairy, 14-6, for the Apple Bowl crown and the mythical Nebraska midget football championship Sunday at Pius X field.

Dave McGinnis opened the Lincoln club's scoring with a 53-yard dash in the first quarter, then ran the PAT.

Scott Stantard then iced the game in the fourth quarter for the Welders on a three-yard scoring run.

Lincoln Welding travels to Denver, Colo. next Saturday to face the Denver All-Stars.

While Gausman is impressed with the weekly improvement of his defense, he is most pleased about the return of I-back Roger Stewart.

Stewart missed wins over York, Nebraska City and Crete because of strained knee ligaments. His absence pressed Mark Hansen into I-back duty until Stewart returned for wins over Seward, Auburn, Superior and Tecumseh.

"Having Mark back at flanker has really helped," according to Gausman. "He filled in well at I-back, but he's more important to us as a blocker and receiver. I don't think I've ever had anyone who could block downfield as well as he does. He's been tremendous."

Hansen, a 6-0, 165-pound senior, also has been one of Fairbury's leading tacklers at cornerback. Linebacker Greg Gibson and senior defensive tackle twins Kim and Ken Kujath also have been outstanding.

But the defensive secondary continues to earn the respect

Vail Sparks Omaha Win

Omaha (AP) — Rookie forward Eric Vail scored one goal and assisted on another in the second period to pace Omaha to a 5-1 Central Hockey League victory over Albuquerque Sunday night.

The win pulled Omaha into a second place tie with idle Oklahoma City.

Omaha took a 1-0 lead on rookie John Losier's goal at 9:05 of the first period and expanded it to 3-0 on Vail's goal.

Rodgers Paces Als Past Toronto

TORONTO (AP) — Overtime touchdowns by Larry Smith and Johnny Rodgers, combined with Don Sweet's two field goals, single and conversion, carried the Montreal Alouettes to a 32-10 triumph over the Toronto Argonauts in the semifinals of the Canadian Football League's Eastern Conference playoffs Sunday.

The Argonauts had a chance to win the game with a 55-yard field goal attempt by Zenon Andrusyshyn in the final minute of regulation time, but the kick fell short and carried the teams—tied 10-10—into two 10-minute overtime periods.

Andrusyshyn's third field goal of the game, with 1:09 remaining in the fourth quarter, gave the Argonauts the tie.

LAFF-A-DAY

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it:
AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
